Many companies in the world have people who are mentally disconnected from their work. The situation gets worse when the epidemic infects the leaders of the organization and we end up having a “zombie” organization, whose days may be numbered.

Discover the antidotes to becoming a part of the working dead and help your organization to overcome this worldwide pandemic.

Leading the fight against the spread of the “working dead” is EU and ESADE graduate Jorge Carulla. A certified ICF Coach with the Academy of Leadership, Coaching and NLP in California; Carulla founded Shakeup – a firm specialized in C-Level team management and performance with bases in Mallorca and Switzerland. His presentation will be focused on how managers can counteract the negative effects that come with disconnected employees.
